Plug Me In (Solar) Limited (previously Environmental Energies Limited) has produced a separate Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking statement in relation to the steps taken in investigating their own supply chain. This statement can be found here. This statement reflects this Calisen Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement. Plug Me In Limited and Plug Me In (Heat) Limited are no longer open to and contracting new business.

Calisen's supply chains

As an expanding business with a number of suppliers, Calisen recognises that there is a risk (however small) for modern slavery or human trafficking occurring in its supply chains. Calisen takes a zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery and human trafficking and adheres to the strictest behaviours and standards and expects the same of its suppliers. Calisen therefore seeks to partner with suppliers that ensure a fair and ethical workplace, where workers are treated with dignity and respect and the highest standards of human rights are upheld.

Calisen's policies

Calisen is committed to ensuring that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in its supply chains or in any part of its business. It is a fundamental policy of Calisen to conduct its business with integrity and in accordance with the highest standards of ethics, equity and fair dealing.

Calisen has embedded groupwide policies to improve its procurement process. These policies are as follows:

1. Calisen Procurement Policy
2. Calisen Group Code of Conduct for Vendors.

These policies have been reviewed and updated in 2024 and will be reviewed again and updated, in 2026. These policies reflect Calisen's commitment to acting ethically and with integrity in all its business relationships and to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls to ensure modern slavery and human trafficking is not taking place anywhere in its supply chains.

Due diligence processes for modern slavery and human trafficking

Calisen has taken appropriate steps to help ensure that modern slavery or human trafficking has not taken place in its supply chains and in any part of its own business.

Internally, Calisen has robust recruitment processes which include undertaking document checks on candidates prior to employment to evidence that they are permitted to work in the UK, performing appropriate reference checks and ensuring that staff are paid directly into a suitable personal bank account. In relation to its supply chains, it undertakes due diligence during the supplier selection process and has reviewed its contractual arrangements with current and prospective suppliers to ensure they comply with the Act.

As part of its initiative to identify and mitigate risk, Calisen has: 1) a robust procurement process outlined above; 2) updated its due diligence processes; 3) acknowledged the need to continue to map its supply chains to identify the parts of the supply chains where the risks are most severe or most likely to occur; and 4) adopted processes to identify and assess potential risk areas in its supply chains. During 2025 Calisen undertook a due diligence exercise on its suppliers, categorised the risks presented by suppliers. This involved consideration of the geographical location where its supply chain operates as well as assessing whether specific parts of the business or particular relationships or transactions are vulnerable to modern slavery and human trafficking.

Supplier adherence to Calisen's values

Calisen engages with its suppliers to seek assurance about their anti-slavery and human trafficking policies and whether they are taking steps to prevent modern slavery and human trafficking in their respective businesses and supply chains. Calisen will not support or engage suppliers where it is aware of modern slavery or human trafficking in such suppliers' business or supply chains or where a supplier has failed to give Calisen the requisite assurances.

Training

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in its supply chains and its business, all Calisen employees must complete an online training program on modern slavery. All new starters will complete this training on joining Calisen and all existing staff will be required to complete this training every two or three years, depending upon their role in the Group.

Calisen's effectiveness in combating modern slavery and human trafficking

Calisen's analysis suggests that the risk for Calisen of involvement in modern slavery and human trafficking is low on the basis that it conducts extensive due diligence processes on its supply chains and its supply chains are established suppliers that have in place significant due diligence processes. When dealing with suppliers operating in jurisdictions outside the United Kingdom, Calisen implements a full assessment on their compliance with, amongst others, the Act and, if appropriate, Calisen requires a site audit to those suppliers to ensure their compliance with Calisen's standards.

Calisen conducts onsite Due Diligence audits where possible, and virtual audits where not, and has included a review of Modern Slavery and human trafficking to ensure compliance with the Act in accordance with Calisen's standards.

Further steps

Calisen is committed to continual improvement and will take active measures to combat modern slavery and human trafficking in its business and supply chains.

This statement is made under section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes Calisen's Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement for the financial year ending 31 December 2025.

This statement has been approved by Calisen's board of directors and will be reviewed annually.
